

Hello
user1

Hi, how are you
user2

I'm well, how are you doing?
user1

Good, thanks! :)
user2

I see we have an interesting topic to chat about
user1

Let's see, in my opinion, I would have to say Republicans are more hypocritical because a lot of things they stand for are in opposition to another thing they stand for.
user2

I'm a Democrat on the Liberal side.
user2

How about you?
user2

I would absolutely agree with you on that. Given the events as of late, it seems they are being very hypocritical
user1

Not that it's just the events as of late....Jan. 6 is another example...you could list example after example
user1

For an example, they are against welfare, but they are also against raising the minimum wage
user2

Exactly, how can you tell people that they aren't eligible for welfare, and pay them pennies at their job when it clearly isn't enough to pay the bills
user1

And also, they abolished abortion, so people who can't afford children and accidentally get pregnant have to be on govt assistance!
user2

I read a book called Freakonomics and it read that the crime rate went down by 80% after abortion became legal in all states
user2

So, we may be preparing for a wave of crime for the next decade.
Probably more school shootings.
user2

Abortion is an entirely separate topic. It's absolutely abhorant what is going on with the abortion laws right now.
user1

I'm rather worried. It's funny because every Republican is scared of what Liberals or Democrats want, but they are causing the problems
user2

Well, the school shootings will continue because the Republicans are too endowed to the NRA and don't want to do anything to change the gun laws
user1

I really hate that everything is about money
user2

It's very ironic that's for sure, and how can the administration get anything done when the Republican's are playing second semester sandbox
user1

haha, true
user2

Yeah, nothing gets done. And if the Dems win, the Republicans whine about it nonstop
user2

And, I'm sorry, but there is not one single man that has the right to tell a woman what she can or can't do with her body
user1

Exactly, I agree
user2

Like we're laboratory experiments.
user2

I'm a woman too btw, if you couldn't tell :)
user2

EXACTLY! Let's see what happens when we do this....or what happens when we do that...and let the chips fall where they may (I'm a woman as well)
user1

School shootings, the loss of innocent lives, is just the price of doing business for the Repulicans
user1

